Aboriginal Health Practitioner (Identified)

Full Time

Dubbo Aboriginal Medical Service (DAMS) is seeking an enthusiastic person to fill the full-time position of Aboriginal Health Practitioner (AHP). This role will work closely with the clinical team in the delivery of primary health care.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Practitioners play a vital role in the primary health workforce. They provide clinical and primary health care for individuals, families and community groups. They deal with patients, clients and visitors to hospitals and health clinics. They also assist in arranging, coordinating and providing health care within the Dubbo Community. The Aboriginal Health Practitioner will undergo continuous training to fulfil this role.

Note: This is an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander Identified Position authorised by Section 14 of the Anti-Discrimination Act 1977, NSW, which requires successful candidates to provide proof of Aboriginality.

Key Selection Criteria

- Identify as an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander with ability to provide proof of Aboriginality (mandatory),
- AQTF Certificate IV in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Primary Health Care Practice (or currently studying),
- Demonstrated ability to conduct 715 health assessments and knowledge of chronic disease management,
- Knowledge and experience using Best Practice appointment system, or willingness to learn,
- Demonstrates a commitment to the CAHS code of conduct, equal employment opportunity, work health & safety and cultural safety framework
- Current nationally coordinated criminal history check, NSW working with children's check and unrestricted class C or P2 driver's licence

Candidates must be work-ready, with all the required pre-employment checks (police checks, WWCC, etc) available to be submitted directly after the interview.

All applicants must submit a current resume and a short response (maximum of two pages) on how your experience, abilities, knowledge and personal qualities are relevant for the role.

This job will close on 25th September 2026.

In addition, applications can also be emailed to hr@ctgservices.com.au.
